④ 授業題目	Japanese Law and Society
④ 授業の目的と概要	COURSE OBJECTIVES AND OUTLINE: This course will serve both as an introduction to Japanese law to those who are new to the subject, and a chance to analyze and discuss a wide range of issues in Japanese law and gain a more global perspective for those who have already taken courses in Japanese law. After learning/reviewing some basic concepts, we will be discussing a range of specific topics in different areas of Japanese law. Please note that this year there will be much more family law content (and fewer other topics) than previous years (see Preliminary Class Schedule below on details of topics that will be explored in this seminar). Where appropriate, comparative perspectives from other countries will be introduced. The aim of this seminar is to (1) acquire/review the basic concepts of (Japanese) law, (2) deepen the participants' understanding of Japanese law and Japanese society, and (3) provide a global perspective on social issues in Japan and on the approach of Japanese law in tackling these issues.
④ 学修の到達目標	GOAL OF STUDY: Students will learn/review the basic concepts and characteristics of various areas of (Japanese) law, as well as discuss specific current topics in Japanese law. By the end of the class, students will be able to analyze and discuss various current and classical topics in Japanese law and society from a comparative and global perspective.
④ 授業内容・方法と進度予定	CONTENTS, METHOD AND PROGRESS SCHEDULE: Class sessions will be a mix of lectures and seminars (mostly seminars). Active student participation, including in the form of class and group discussion, will be required during each session. Furthermore, students are expected to fill in "preparation sheets" based on reading assignments. These will serve as preparation and aid for class/group discussion, and will also be carefully read and graded by the lecturer. Finally, students are required to make a presentation in class. Preliminary Class Schedule: 1. Orientation (on-demand video) 2.
