NATIONAL PENSION SYSTEM AND NATIONAL HEALTH INSURANCE

NATIONAL PENSION SYSTEM

- The National Pension System (NPS) applies to everyone over the age of 20 living in Japan, including international students.
- For international students, a payment exemption/postponement system is available.
- When completing the enrollment procedure, you will apply for a payment exemption. Additionally, degree-seeking students must apply for payment postponement (Special Payment System for Students) after receiving their Student ID and Basic Pension Number or Individual Number (see pp. 7-8).

PAYMENT EXEMPTION

The application process for payment exemption/postponement varies depending on your status at Tohoku University. Please refer to the classification below and follow the instructions on the next page.

Category A

Degree-seeking students

Undergraduate Students

Graduate Students

Category B

Non degree students

↓ IPLA, JYPE, DEEP students

Research Students

Special Auditing Students

Credited Auditors

Special Research Students

↑ COLABS students

Short-term Visiting Trainee

PAYMENT EXEMPTION

Category A

- You can complete your pension enrollment at the Special Counter, but you cannot apply for the Special Payment System for Students at that time.
- To complete your application for the Special Payment System for Students, please visit the Education and Student Support Center at Kawauchi Campus after receiving your student ID and your Basic Pension Number or Individual Number (My Number). Eligible applicants will receive an application form at the Special Counter.

Category B

- You can complete the pension enrollment and payment exemption application at the Special Counter.
  - Student ID is not required

TIMELINE AFTER THE APPLICATION

- Even if you apply for exemption/postponement, you will receive a payment slip along with your pension card about 45 days after your application.
- You are not required to pay it, but please keep it until you receive the confirmation of your exemption /postponement.
- After receiving the confirmation, you may dispose of the payment slips.
- The pension card with your pension number is an important document. Please keep it in a safe place and do not dispose of it.

For IPLA, JYPE, DEEP, COLABS students

PLEASE NOTE: Even after completing the proper procedures at the ward office, you might still receive a payment slip. If this happens, please keep it without paying. You can dispose of it when the confirmation of your exemption arrives in approximately three months.

IMPORTANT NOTES ABOUT THE NPS

- You will receive an application form for the renewal of the exemption by mid-May each year.
  - You need to send the completed form back to the Japan Pension Service by mail each time, after filling in the required information.
  - This is mandatory for those whose stay in Japan will extend beyond July of the year.
- Please remember to complete the renewal of the exemption after receiving the documents from the Japan Pension Service.

NATIONAL HEALTH INSURANCE

- National health insurance is mandatory for everyone living in Japan, including international students.
- You will need to pay insurance premiums for the duration of your stay.
- International students can apply for a reduction in insurance premiums.

If the premiums are set too high

- Some students may receive payment slips with unusually high amounts due.
- This error may occur depending on the date of your insurance enrollment, as processing the premium reduction application requires some time.
- Please use the first payment slip to pay the premiums of the current month. The adjusted payment slips will be sent the following month.

ELIGIBILITY CONFIRMATION CARD

Example

- Once you complete the application, you will receive an eligibility confirmation card.
- When visiting a doctor, please bring this document and present it at the reception.
- With this document, you will only need to pay 30% of the actual medical fees.

Renewal of payment reduction

- If your income from the previous year is below the threshold, you can renew your payment reduction.
- To do so, you must report your income from the previous year to the city government, as it is not automatically renewed.
- This procedure is required even if you have no income.
- If you receive a notification to report your income, please be sure to complete the process.
